

April Recap

By: Jessica Spaccio, Climatologist

Northeast Regional Climate Center

April Temperatures

From near normal to more than 8°F below normal

April Precipitation

From 50% of normal to more than 200% of normal

Drought Monitor

Maryland (left):
23% abnormally dry
2% moderate drought

Maryland (right):
41% abnormally dry
1% moderate drought

Intensity:

-  D0 Abnormally Dry
-  D1 Moderate Drought

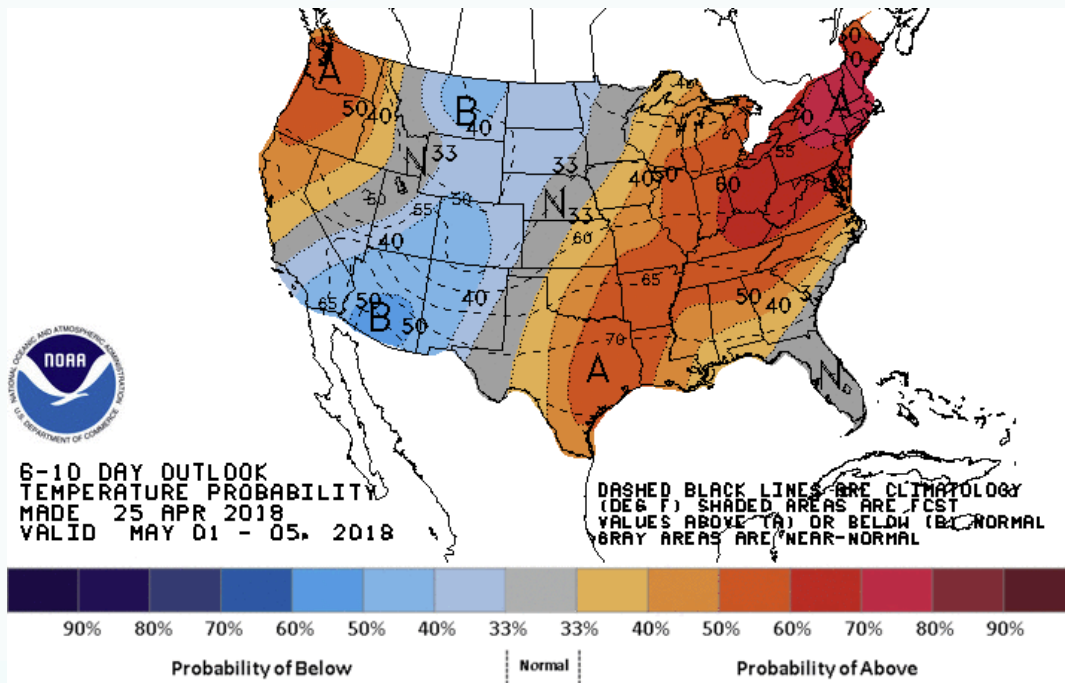

April Snowfall

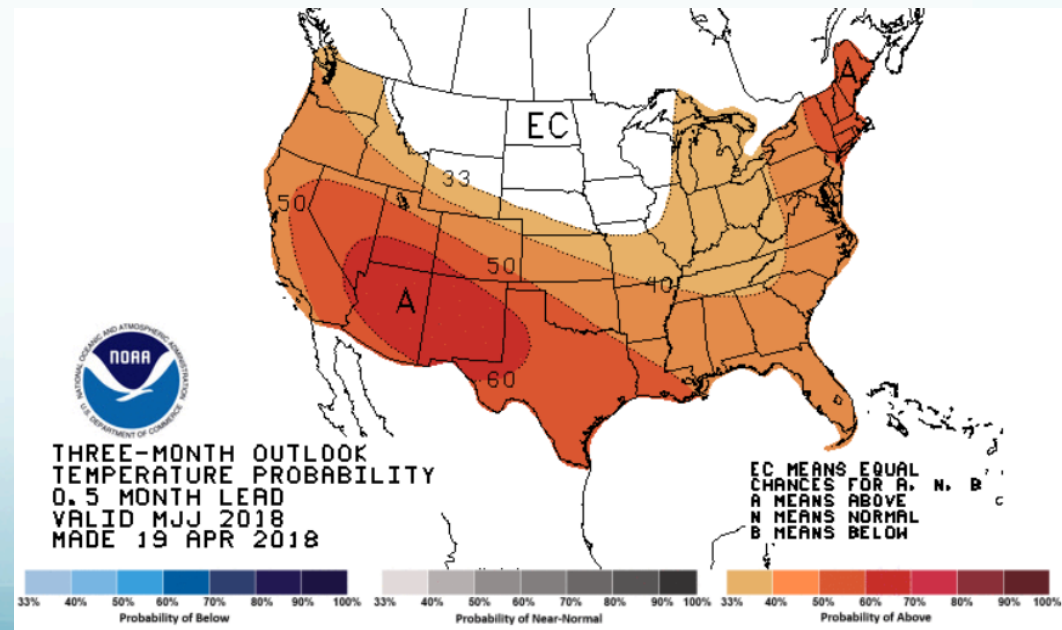

From 6" below normal to more than 6" above normal

Temperature Outlooks

May 1 – 5
Increased chances of above-normal temperatures from West Virginia to Maine (left)

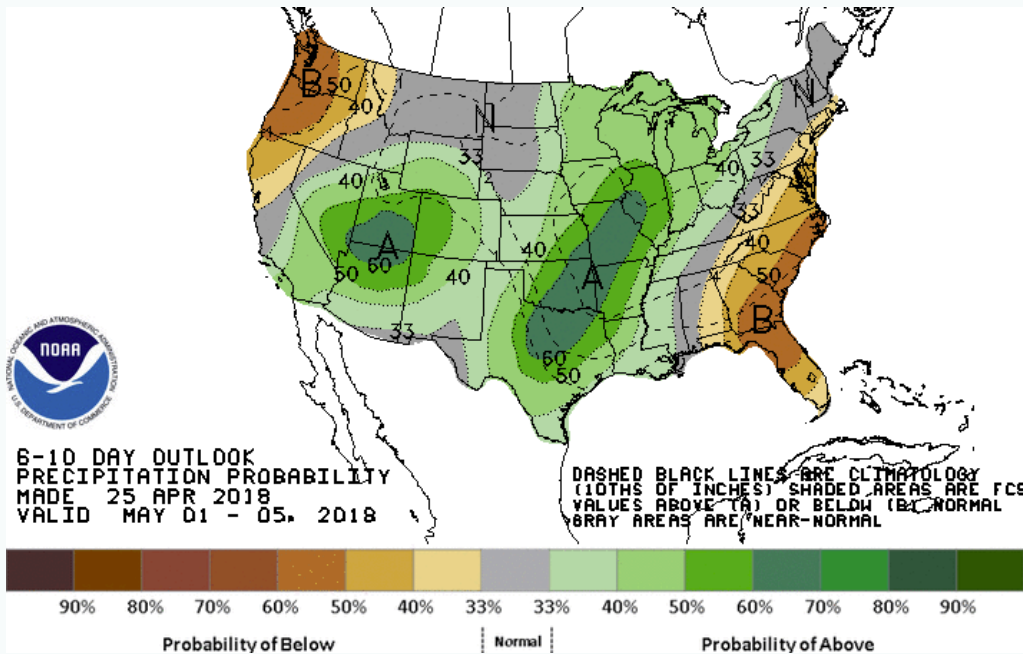

May – July:
Increased chances of above-normal temperatures for the Northeast and much of the country (right)

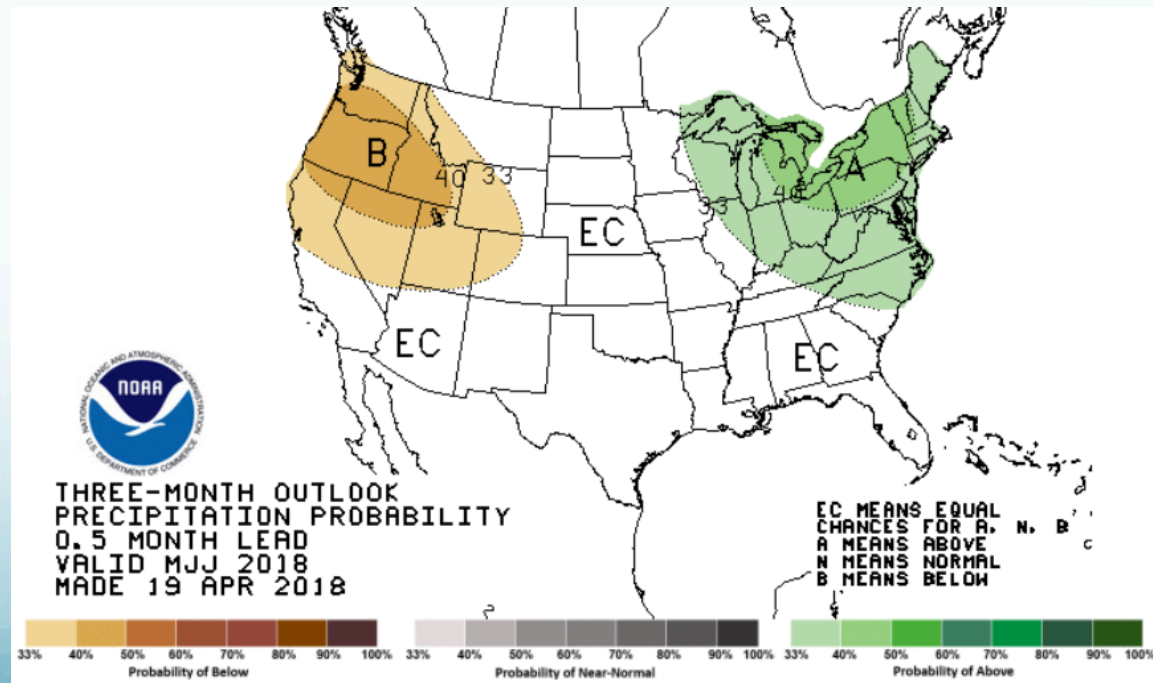

Precipitation Outlooks

May 1 – 5:

Increased chance of below-normal precipitation for southeast areas, increased chance of above-normal precipitation for western areas.

May – July:
Increased chance of above-normal precipitation for the entire region (right)

Contact Information

- nrcc@cornell.edu
- 607-255-1751

Upcoming Webinar

- Thursday, May 31 at 9:30 am on the National Water Model
- Thursday, June 28 at 9:30 am
- Tuesday, July 31 at 9:30 am

www.nrcc.cornell.edu